

MIDA stands for Master Infrastructure Development Agreement. This is the correct title used in the agreement between the Government of Liberia and Bea Mountain Mining Corporation.

A HeartTalk Network editorial presentation of the proposed infrastructure programme and its potential national benefits.

IMPORTANT TERMINOLOGY CORRECTION

The correct name of the agreement

The acronym MIDA means Master Infrastructure Development Agreement. It does not mean “Mineral and Infrastructure Development Agreement.” The agreement’s full formal title is Master Infrastructure Development Agreement (Engineering, Procurement, Construction, Infrastructure Financing, Tax Set-Off and Government Support Agreement).

This corrected edition uses the proper expansion throughout. The programme concerns infrastructure projects proposed under an agreement between the Government of Liberia and Bea Mountain Mining Corporation. The word “Mineral” is not part of the acronym’s expansion.

The project descriptions and potential benefits in this magazine remain presented as proposed commitments, subject to the agreement’s terms, applicable approvals and implementation.
